Financial Reporting Workshop
at the SIDREA National Congress
First call for papers

Financial Reporting – Journal of Financial Communication is pleased to announce its workshop on the occasion of the SIDREA National Congress, taking place in Ancona on September 12th and 13th, 2024.

The SIDREA National Congress, under the theme 'Sustainable development, artificial intelligence, and human capital: challenges and opportunities in accounting for academics and practitioners,' presents a highly relevant platform for the Financial Reporting Journal's focus areas. This theme aligns perfectly with the journal's dedication to exploring the forefront of accounting practices, technology, and sustainability. Therefore, papers dealing with all of these topics are invited.

We are committed to discussing high-quality papers that contribute to our understanding and advancement in these critical areas, thus offering valuable insights for academic research and practical application in the field of financial reporting.

The Financial Reporting Journal encourages submissions employing any methodology, reflecting our commitment to a broad scholarly dialogue. This inclusive approach ensures a rich diversity of perspectives and methods in our discussions.

Should you wish to have a paper considered for the presentation at the workshop, please email a 1.000-word abstract or a full paper by May 31st, 2024, to the following e-mail address: info@frjournal.eu

Submitting authors will be notified of acceptance by June 20th, 2024.

Authors of the accepted papers are kindly asked to subscribe for the Conference by July 31, 2024.

At the authors' choice, conference papers might also be submitted online and be considered for a fast track for publication in Financial Reporting. Please select the "FT Workshop SIDREA 2024" option in the "Section" drop-down menu. The fast-track option will expire on October 25th, 2024.

Further details on registration fees, locations, and SIDREA National Congress can be found at the following website www.sidrea.it.
